

P. J. Harrigan Dies Suddenly, Few Minutes After Suffering Attack of Acute Indigestion

Was in Perfect Health, Apparently, on Retiring Wednesday Night.

LONG CAREER WITH B. & O.

Entering Employ Here as Machinist He Followed Trade 40 Years, Becoming Master Mechanic; Once Burgess of Town; Always a Booster

Patrick J. Harrigan, one of Connellsville's most prominent and progressive citizens, died suddenly at 5.30 o'clock this morning from acute indigestion at his home in West Cedar avenue. He became ill shortly after 5 o'clock and death followed within a few minutes. When he retired Wednesday night he was in the best of spirits. Members of the family were aroused when he complained of the pain and administered treatment. His death occurred as he turned in his bed to ease the pain.

Mr. Harrigan, identified with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company through all the period of his residence in this city, was active in any affair that promised progress for Connellsville. He was always a booster and gave much of his time to civic work. He came to this city from Parkersburg, W. Va., when about 15 years old. He entered the Baltimore & Ohio shops as a machinist, following that trade about 40 years. In 1893 he was transferred to Cumberland as master mechanic and about two years later returned here in the same capacity. He held that position at the Connellsville shops until about 10 years ago, when he was retired. Since then he was still employed by the railroad company as mechanical ruler or engineer on the Connellsville and Pittsburgh divisions. He was 72 years old last March.

At one time Mr. Harrigan was Burgess of the town. He also held the office of councilman and school director. When the centennial was held he was an active member of the committee in charge.

When the Baltimore & Ohio Veterans Association was organized he was made president of it. He had always held that position and through his efforts the organization has grown steadily and flourished.

Mr. Harrigan combined his progressive attitude in his work for the railroad and the community. His object was always to bring these two closer together. He was regarded as one of Connellsville's most valuable citizens and as one of the Baltimore & Ohio Company's most loyal employees. He was a member of the Immaculate Conception Church. He was also a Knight of Columbus, held a fourth degree membership of Youghiogheny Council No. 918. He served as a trustee in the order for 20 years.

He married Miss Mary King of this city, who, together with five children, survives him. They are Mrs. P. A. Yahnner of Uniontown, Mrs. J. Whitey Soloson and Misses Harrigan, all of this city. Eight grandchildren also survive.

The death was a shock to the community. Mr. Harrigan numbered his friends in this city by the score and there was not a better known figure on the eastern lines of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company.

M. ### Mrs. P. R. Teichert, Vanderbilt Woman, Called by Death

Mrs. Flora Mundorf Teichert, wife of Paul R. Teichert, died this morning at 7 o'clock at her home on Vanderbilt Heights. She would have been 55 years old had she lived until January 5. The end came after an illness of one month that set in following the birth of a son, Monday of this week.

Mrs. Teichert was one of the best known women of Connellsville and highly respected by all who knew her. She was born at Vanderbolt on January 5, 1869, the daughter of John and Martha Mundorf. Her father died several years ago and her mother has been living at the Teichert home for some time. She was married to Mr. Teichert at James Cochran Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, with Rev. W. J. Lowmiller, then pastor of the church, officiating. Rev. Lowmiller is now in Boston. To this union were born two children, John and James Nelson, the latter but one month old.

Besides her husband, who was recently elected president of the Vanderbolt borough school board, two sons and two step-children survive. The two step-children are Donald of Pittsburgh and Grace at home. Donald was graduated from the Dunbar Township High School with the class of 1922, Grace with the class of 1923.

The former is an employee of the West Penn Spring in Pittsburgh. One brother, Fred, of Dickerson Run, and four sisters, Mrs. Joanne Gault and Mrs. Louise Brady of Youngstown, Ohio. Mrs. Lydia Ronna of Scotland and a sister in Memphis, Tenn., also survive.

Mrs. Teichert was one of the most active members of James Cochran Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church. She was the secretary of the Vanderbolt Saturday Afternoon Club, one of the leading social organizations in the country. She was the mother of the Loyal Junior Class. She was also an active member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and the Ladies' Aid Society.

Mrs. Teichert was one of The Courier's friends. She always kept the newspaper supplied with the news of activities that took place in the community.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

13 SCARLET FEVER CASES REPORTED TO BOARD OF HEALTH

Despite the fact that it was reported this city had in it at present several scores of scarlet fever patients, Health Officer John Irwin this morning announced he had received notice from physicians showing there were only 13 cases of the disease. Because these cases have developed within this month the public seemed inclined to become alarmed and the report of many cases originated.

One case was reported this morning. The patient is Fanny Holt, eight years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holt of 418 North Cottage avenue.

COOLIDGE FAVORS INCREASE SALARIES POSTAL EMPLOYEES

But Wants to Make Sure the Necessary Funds Will Be Forthcoming.

MAY CUT DOWN SOME ITEMS

In the Budget, Such as a Building Expediture, in Case Congress Provides No Other Plan by Which the Increase Can Be Safely Financed.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1924, by The Courier.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—President Coolidge makes it clear in his talks with the men on Capitol Hill that he favors the increase in postal pay but that he wants to make sure the funds are forthcoming before there is an authorization to spend. But the proposition is not even as simple as that for one would say offhand the postal service ought to be self-supporting. The rub comes when the Postoffice Department tries to increase postal rates in order to meet the pay increases.

Nearly every interest which could possibly be affected by the suggested increase in rates has come down to Washington with a loud clamor lest its interest be affected. The farmer doesn't want the increase tacked on the parcel post. Newspapers and periodicals are insistent that second-class matter shall not be tampered with. The business men of the country do not want to see the first-class mail rates increased and so on down the line.

Where then is the $65,000,000 coming from to pay the increases which most everybody admits are due the postal carriers and mail employees? The President has let it be known unofficially that if the vote on the last pay bill is not considered for the present, at least until there is an agreement by the Senate and House on how the money shall be raised, he will ultimately have no objection to the overriding of his own veto. In fact, he may recommend the passage of an increased pay bill very much along the lines of the one now proposed by Postmaster General New.

Supporters of the salary increase measure do not favor the New plan of raising the necessary funds through an increase in rates on second and third-class matter. They declare the purpose of the New bill has been to create sentiment unfavorable to the salary increase by proposing an unpopular plan for providing the funds. They further assert that through increases in parcel post and special delivery rates, the salary bill, vetoed by President Coolidge, made ample provision for money to pay the increase in salaries.

In all the budget of nearly three and a half billions, isn't there $65,000,000 which can be better spent for postal employees wages than for other items?

That is the question with which the budget officers of the government have been struggling with, but when the budget was sent to Congress the question was not answered, whereupon the friends in Congress of the postal employees went ahead with their plan to get a vote to override the veto. The Executive and yet have to find the money by putting down on some building expenditure elsewhere but the chances are that some increases in postal rates will be put through as a means of paying at least part of the new expense.

The strategy of the friends of the postal bill is to get the measure passed and make Congress and the Executive find ways of meeting the expense later, very much as the soldier bonus advocates did. For if the controversy is left to drag till a way is found to pay the money, the present session of Congress which is short would probably lose the whole matter to the Senate. By passing a law requiring the appropriation, Congress will commit itself to the financing of the pay increase.

Gompers Laid To Rest After Jewish Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Accompanying Samuel Gompers a "frontiersman, a pioneer in the ranks of labor and a patriot of patriots," Rabbi Stephen Weiss today conducted the funeral service for the fond labor leader in the crowded auditorium of the B'nai Club. Hundreds were turned away after the auditorium was filled with men and women from every walk of life. The service was broadcast.

Gompers' Americanism was stressed by those who eulogized him. Workers throughout the Nation paused for two minutes at 11 A. M., eastern standard time, to pay silent tribute to the dead leader. The hum of industry was stopped in scores of factories and shops as Gompers was laid to rest in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery at Tarrytown.

Is Desired to Know to What Extent People Will Stand
Behind Proposition.

STATE WILLING TO AID

On a 50-50 basis but the Community Must First Show What It Can and Will Do: Local Labor Unions are Already on Record as to Attitude.

The meeting of the Connellsville Hospital Association at the Kiwanis Club rooms, Carnegie Library, tonight at 7:30 o'clock, has two objects. The first, and possibly the least important, is to complete the organization of the association. The second, and highly important, is to determine if the people of Connellsville are interested in the proposition to the extent of going ahead in the efforts to remedy the admittedly unsatisfactory hospital conditions in this section.

Discussing these matters this morning Charles B. Franks, president of the association, expressed his confidence in the ability of the community to carry out the undertaking. "But," he said, "we must have the active cooperation of all the citizens and must know to what extent they can be depended on to stay with the proposition until we have accomplished our purpose to secure a modern hospital."

"In our conferences with Dr. Ellen Potter, secretary of the Department of Welfare, we have been reasonably assured that the state will join with our community in the matter of providing a hospital. That is, whatever sum of money we can raise will be matched by an equal amount in an appropriation, which has been done in other sections of the state."

"The important thing for our people to know, however, is that they must show what they themselves can and will do in carrying out such a plan. They must take the first steps and then will be to raise some money, the larger the sum the better. If, on our first efforts, we would raise half of what would be necessary to tear down a part of the Cottage State Hospital and rebuild it as a unit of the new structure and equip it completely, the assurance of State aid would be that the state would come to our aid in thus giving the undertaking an actual beginning. Later we could raise another sum, build another unit and by that means come to eventual possession of a real hospital plant."

"Before anything can be done we must know the attitude of the people. We already know what the members of the unions comprising the Central Trades & Labor Council will do. They have taken official action which commits each member to contributing one day's pay to the hospital fund. These organizations have been very much interested in the hospital plan and were the first to go on record as to what they will do. The workers at the coke and mining plants have indicated their willingness to make donations of two days' pay. With the resumption of activity in the region the contribution from this source will be a very considerable sum."

"It is known that the corporations employing labor of all kinds will give substantial sums. What is not yet known is the strength of public sentiment in favor of going ahead. This we hope to ascertain tonight and the measure of it will be the numbers of persons in attendance at the meeting."

A committee of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Hospital Association will present the official notice of their organization and a request to be accepted as a duly authorized unit of the association. This formality is required by the charter and by-laws of the association.

W. H. Kelly, secretary of the Central Trades & Labor Council, has issued a notice urging all members to be in attendance at the meeting to assist in forming a permanent organization. "This applies," says Secretary Kelly, "to all members of the 1921 committee and also to any new members who may have been appointed by the various local unions and railroad brotherhoods, who they elected new officers for the year 1925. It is desired that every local union and railroad brotherhood be represented at this meeting."

Starting on a period of service in the tropics, Herman Geyer Conn, son of Mr. Sarah A. Conn of Vanderbilt is now on duty with the United States Marines in Haiti, according to official records at Marine Corps headquarters in Washington. He will probably remain in the West Indies a year or longer before returning to the United States.

A small force of marines has been on duty in Haiti since 1915, when the soldiers of the sea landed in that country to restore order during a revolution. During their occupation of Haiti, they have established schools, roads and public works and encouraged agriculture and thrift among the natives.

HANOVER, Dec. 13.—Fritz Haarman, whose trial for the murder of 27 youths came to an end today, declared in court he would like to be beheaded in the public market place here with the whole city present and motion pictures taken of the execution.

Haarman expressed hope that the court would follow the suggestion of the state's attorney, who yesterday demanded the death penalty. Joking with his jurors the mad man ordered his last meal and said he wanted his grave decorated annually by Hans Grans, an accomplice. The latter probably will be tried for complicity.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare. Saves 10¢ a bottle.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pine in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the price. It is sure to cure your cough, soothe your throat, and give you very pleasant—children take it eagerly.

You can feel this take hold of a cough—cold, cold means binding up the throat. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—irritation, inflammation—and this Pine and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, heartcough, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pine is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Review of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pine" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pine Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Over Night That Sore, Inflamed Throat Gets Better

Calvaries of Paris Are Rapidly Passing

Now the calvaries of Paris are vanishing. The old walls, on which penitence and adoration erected them have crumbled, have been swept away, and the new walls know no calvaries. Here and there, however, writes "F. G. H." in the continental edition of the London Mail, the great and sorrowful symbol of the Christian faith may still be seen.

In remote corners, just out of the swift current of the city's life it stands unheeded by the busy crowds. Only the birds sometimes flutter round it, and in the manner of some medieval legend, we might believe the feathered things cared for something that humanity had almost forgotten. Of such calvaries one may be found at the corner of the Rue d'Aubervilliers and the Rue de l'Evangile. It has its place not in one of the swiftest parts of the great city, and we might be disposed to question the work itself from the standpoint of mere art. But there it stands, and a cropper droops half-carelessly around the head of it. It breaks suddenly the level contour of an ugly wall. And sometimes it may seem that nothing was ever broken in a manner more wonderful than this poor wall is broken by the delicious calvary.

Police Dogs "Wolfish"

The police dogs are not a distinct breed, but are shepherd dogs police trained. The German police dog should stand 22 to 28 inches at the shoulder and show in every line the qualities which he is supposed to possess—intelligence, alertness, loyalty, gentleness, courage, obedience, willingness and devotion. With the standard and allows great range of color, these most often seen in this country are of the so-called "wolf" colors, dark tipping of hair over a tawny or buff ground. The muzzle (unlike that of a wolf) is usually blackish. Both the German and Belgian dogs may be divided into three general types—namely, rough-haired, wire-haired and smooth-haired. By their erect ears and general expression they betray their near relationship to the wolf.

Honest at Least

Her blond prettiness and dainty attire attracted a woman as she stood beside her in the public library. From her chic satin hat to her trim little shoes she was the last word in feminine smartness.

She had asked the librarian for the most widely read book of the day and the librarian was doubtful whether there was a copy in at present, but after searching a few moments returned and handed her the desired book.

"Oh, goodness, no! It has too many pages; I heard so much about it I just thought I should read it, but that's too much of a job," and thinking the girl every sweetly, slipped out of the building, leaving a faint trace of perfume and a wide-eyed librarian behind her.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

An Easily Made Rocking Chair.

One Mother Says:

My husband sawed out some rockers and nailed them on a wooden box. He then cut the sides of the box down in a slope. I put a seat in it and painted it a pretty blue outside and cream color inside. Then I put a cushion on the seat, nailed two stout straps to the front for reins, and baby had a little rocking chair. One night I nailed the box onto old chair rockers, instead of making special ones.

Why Druggists Recommend Swamp-Root

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once. However, if you wish free to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement—17dec-17.

Underneath the surface of today lies yesterday, and what we call the past, the only thing which never can decay.

CHRISTMAS SWEETS

Let us prepare early to collect something different in recipes for our Christmas candy. A candy thermometer may be bought for a small sum, and if carefully used will last a lifetime. With a thermometer one is sure to have uniform results. A bright candy jar is always best for any of the holid candies.

Peanut Candy.—Who does not enjoy a good peanut candy, not too hard and brittle? Here is one that is the "best ever." Take one pound of peanuts, shell, remove the brown husks and roll with the rolling pin until the nuts are like coarse crumbs. Put into a saucepan two pounds of brown sugar and twelve tablespoons of butter. Put over the heat and count the time from the first bubble, stir constantly and cook just seven minutes, then add the peanuts, stir and pour into a well-greased dripping pan. Mark off in squares.

Caramel Mixture.—Put into a saucepan one cupful of white sugar, one-half cupful of light brown sugar, one-third of a cupful of sirup, one-fourth of a cupful of butter and one-half cupful of heavy cream. Stir until dissolved, then cook without stirring to 240 degrees Fahr. Flavor with almond or vanilla, and pour into a buttered pan. When cool shape into balls and cover with fondant, folding it around the ball with the fingers. Press a pecan nut meat closely on the outside.

Cream Candy.—Cook together two cupfuls of sugar and one cupful of cream until it forms a soft ball in water. Flavor to taste and beat well before pouring into a greased dish.

Peppermint Creams.—Boil together one and one-half cupfuls of granulated sugar and one-half cupful of water, until it spins a thread. Add six drops of peppermint extract. Beat until creamy, then drop by teaspoonfuls on glazed paper.

"THE HEART BUSTER" with Tom Mix in the leading role opened today at the Orpheum for a three day attraction.

The plot of "The Heart Buster" centers around Tom in the role of Ted Walton a young ranch owner, being desperately in love with Rose Miller, daughter of his neighbor. Rose has just completed her education in Europe and her homecoming is a cause of great excitement around her father's ranch. Speculation is rife, however, when she steps off the train accompanied by a foreign or of distinguished bearing whom she announces as her fiancée when Tom knocks him down for kissing her.

From this point on you will be kept on razor edge. Tom recalls seeing the gentleman who has won Rose's heart engaged in a pursuit on which the law frowns and although he tells the lady of his heart about it she refuses to believe and Tom has the job of proving his accusations on his hands. This proves a hard task. For while he is doing it he must also prevent the marriage. His activity in this direction lands him in jail where he is rescued in an extraordinary manner by his faithful horse "Toxy".

The rescue was done too soon as you will see if you attend a showing of "The Heart Buster," which we advise you to do if you don't want to miss one of the best pictures to come here in a long while.

The story has real human interest appeal. Carol Hilton, already married and having two children is disappointed by her husband's failure to keep an evening engagement due to a business conference. In the same house is living Estelle Winslow, Carol's girl friend. Estelle is entertaining Arthur Atterton and Ted Lowe. Ted is Carol's former sweetheart and Estelle asks Carol to join the crowd. Bob Hilton comes home just a time to prevent one of his children who are alone, from taking poison. He rushes up to Estelle's apartment and finds his wife with Ted, his bitter enemy. Carol makes attempts to explain but Bob drives her from his home. He keeps the two children later during a terrible storm, Carol steals into her husband's house to see the children. She is about to kidnap them when Bob hears noises in the children's room. He believes it to be burglars and investigates with a gun. As he opens the door he shoots; the end comes when he finds his wife undisturbed. He realizes she has not broken her marriage vow and takes her back.

"THE BEAUTIFUL SINNER"—The feature picture today and tomorrow at the Paramount presents Eva Novak and William Fairbanks in the leading roles. Friday and Saturday, "Rough Ridin'" starring Buddy Roosevelt will be shown.

Outstanding among the thrills that feature "Rough Ridin'" is one that called for the most hazardous exhibition of horsemanship ever attempted before a moving picture camera. This was Buddy Roosevelt mounted on his bronco galloping at break neck speed in front of an oncoming express train atop a narrow pathway laid across a trestle a thousand feet high and rescuing the heroine from certain death a scant second before the giant locomotive thundered past the spot where the girl was standing.

That constitutes a kick that must be seen to be appreciated. But it is just one of a cumulative series of punches which follow one another with machine gun rapidity and which make "Rough Ridin'" sparkle with breath taking, heart tingling thrills that bang the bulls-eye of popular appeal with unerring accuracy.

The Arcade

"SHE WALKED IN HER SLEEP" a farce by Mark Swan, will be offered and featured at the Arcade today with Miss Ella Kramer in the title role.

The fun found in "She Walked in Her Sleep" centers about the doings of a charming young lady whose habit of sleep walking causes a world of merriment for all observers and a great deal of trouble for all those concerned in its story. The scenes are laid in a fashionable hotel, through the corridors and apartments of which this beautiful young woman departs herself, and in only a most fetching night-robe of pink silk and a large picture hat. With a somnambulistic state she enters the apartment of a young married couple and makes way with a bottle containing a powerful explosive. A great many amusing situations arise in which the young husband has difficulty in explaining the presence of the young lady in his apartment and while by little the entire cast becomes mixed up in various adventures, like all good plays.

The Arcade

"SHE WALKED IN HER SLEEP" a farce by Mark Swan, will be offered and featured at the Arcade today with Miss Ella Kramer in the title role.

The fun found in "She Walked in Her Sleep" centers about the doings of a charming young lady whose habit of sleep walking causes a world of merriment for all observers and a great deal of trouble for all those concerned in its story. The scenes are laid in a fashionable hotel, through the corridors and apartments of which this beautiful young woman departs herself, and in only a most fetching night-robe of pink silk and a large picture hat. With a somnambulistic state she enters the apartment of a young married couple and makes way with a bottle containing a powerful explosive. A great many amusing situations arise in which the young husband has difficulty in explaining the presence of the young lady in his apartment and while by little the entire cast becomes mixed up in various adventures, like all good plays.

The BLUE CIRCLE

BY Elizabeth Jordan
COPYRIGHT BY THE CENTURY CO.

He spoke with robust cheerfulness, and even in her growing panic the girl took in the complete change in the quality of his voice. Roundshaw's voice had been one of the things to which she objected in him. It was in itself an agreeable, even a musical thing; but it spoke with an odd flatness, as if its possessor were out of key with the harmonies of life. Now it vibrated with a vital quality she had never heard in it before. She appreciated the change, but it did not deceive her. She knew he had put on the tone for her, as he might have put on a reassuring tone in speaking to Wanda if he had found the child lost and frightened.

"What is wrong? Is it really only this or—is it locked?"

She spoke quite naturally. Instantly, she had been roused and encouraged by his manner-of-factness.

"The knob turns without retracting the bolt," he explained the matter in detail, glad to divert her mind by conversation while he worked.

"Then is there any use going on turning it?"

He laughed a little, and the sound surprised her even more than his voice and tone.

"I suppose not," he admitted. "But, of course, I wanted to be sure. If I had any tools—but I haven't even a keyhole."

"Would a hairpin help?"

"It would in fiction. In real life, and with a steel lock like this, I'm afraid it won't. But we will try it."

She turned in her hair and handed him a few hairpins of the fine, so-called "invisible" variety. They were useless for his purpose. "Most of my hairpins are shell," she ruefully confessed.

"I have experimented patient's but fruitlessly."

"I think the best thing for me to do is to hang on the door till some one hears us," he said at last.

"I'm afraid no one will. We're so far from everybody here."

One of the servants may pass along the hall. Anyway, I'll try it. If that doesn't work, I'll see if I can break down the door. You're not minding this very much, are you?"

She felt him turn toward her in the darkness.

"I think not. Of course it isn't pleasant."

Her breath had a faint odor, but she spoke with an effort at a laugh.

"No, it isn't pleasant," he cheerfully agreed in those next robust tones; "but it might be a whole lot worse. Now I'll start a tattoo and see if we can't attract attention."

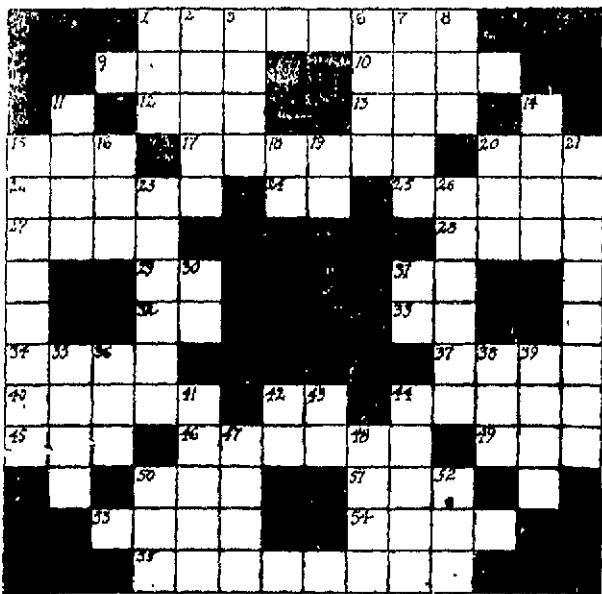

He assailed the stout panels of the oak door with a pair of vigorous fists, varying this by kicking the panels. After a long time Yvette put her hands over her eyes to deaden the din. At last he felt her touch on his arm.

"Do stop a while," she begged. "You will wear yourself out."

"I'm more apt to wear out," he laughed. "I can keep this up indefinitely, but it's rather hard on your nerves."

"It does make me feel as if I were in a nightmare," she confessed. "And I'm afraid it isn't doing any good."

but the old door and lock seemed built to resist any assault.

"Nighly solid house you've got here," he commented rather breathlessly. "Was it built for your grandfather?"

"No, my great-grandfather had it built about a hundred years ago. That is, this main building; which is not large. He gave it the gypsy name, 'Twelve Ker, which means 'little home.' But half a dozen wings have been added since then."

"They don't build houses like this nowadays. I wish they hadn't been so conscientious then." He checked himself, as if he had suddenly thought of something else. "You were born here, I suppose?" he asked, with an interest destined to draw out and keep her talking. He was again working on the lock, feebly assisted by the last hairpin.

"Yes; I was born in my own bed-room—in the one I have had ever since."

"There was a quality in her voice that seriously disturbed him. He whirled toward her quickly."

"Come out of that corner now," he directed. "You'll be better here by the door."

"How much air do you suppose there is in this closet?"

He laughed. "So that's what's worrying you? Well, there's plenty—all we can possibly need."

"Are you sure? It seems to me to be getting close."

"That's because you are nervous and thinking about air and imagining things."

"And it's not—really close?"

"Not a bit of it. I'll figure out our air supply in cubic feet, if you like."

She laughed a little in the sudden relief born of the words. "That wouldn't mean anything to me," she confessed. "I know less about mathematics than anyone you ever met. I shall never forget how horrified grandfather was when he discovered, a few years ago, that I couldn't even figure up my income."

"Have you ever bent your intellect on your income tax?"

Christmas Record By Abe Martin

ABE MARTIN, the Joker on Facts—the popular newspaper personality created by Kin Hubbard—produces exclusively for the Christmas Greetings a record entitled "Christmas and Father." Hilariously funny humor touched with the profoundest philosophy of every-day life is Abe Martin's outstanding characteristic.

"Christmas comes but once a year, but with twelve months' study up and look around in, no-buddy ever seems able to find anything suitable for father," begins Abe's record. A good old-fashioned hearty Christmas feeling expressed in keen wholesome American humor in Abe Martin's matchless vernacular makes this one of the most popular of Christmas Greeting records.
